Questions 4 and 5 are based on the following case study. Answer BOTH questions.

Types of offences committed by girls in a correctional facility

Grandine is a small urban community. It is densely populated and has high rates of unemployment. The Children's Protection Agency reported that there is an increase in the number of girls committing criminal offences. Researchers were interested in discovering the types of offences the girls were committing. Two hundred girls between the ages of twelve and seventeen formed the sample for the study. The girls were interviewed. The research revealed that for the 12 - 14 age group, 10 were involved in gang violence, 20 in prostitution, 20 were involved in drugs and 50 in pornography. For the 15 - 17 age group, 40 were involved in gang violence, 40 in prostitution and 20 in drugs. All the girls indicated that problems in their families were the main reasons for committing the offences. The findings were documented and presented to the Children's Protection Agency.

4. (a) State the MAIN focus of the study conducted by the researchers.

(2 marks)

- (b) Write TWO statements of fact about Grandine.

(2 marks)

- (c) Identify TWO instruments that the researchers may have used to collect the statistical data in this study.

(2 marks)

- (d) Write ONE question the researchers may have asked the girls.
