Questions 4 and 5 are based on the following case study. Answer BOTH questions.

The Opinions of Residents of Fair Valley Island on the Caribbean Court of Justice (CCJ)

Fair Valley Island is a small island surrounded by the Caribbean Sea. Ten thousand of the residents are in the 18–65 age group. Hans International Company was contracted by the government of the country to investigate the opinions of the citizens on the CCJ. Two thousand residents in the 18 to 65 age group formed the sample for the study.

The survey revealed that 1200 of the residents believed that their country should support the CCJ mainly because this would strengthen CARICOM. Four hundred and fifty stated that the country should remain with the British-based Privy Council because this is an established and well-recognized court. Three hundred residents believed that the country should have its own local Court of Final Appeal because independent countries should be responsible for their legal affairs. Fifty of the residents had never heard of the CCJ. The findings were documented and presented to the government.

4. (a) State the MAIN focus of the study conducted by the researchers.

(2 marks)

- (b) Write TWO facts about Fair Valley Island.

(2 marks)

- (c) State the percentage of the sample in the 18–65 age group.

(1 mark)

- (d) Identify ONE instrument that may have been used by the researcher to collect the statistical data for the study.

(1 mark)

- (e) Write ONE research question for the problem that was investigated.

(1 mark)

- (f) For EACH of TWO of the responses given by the residents concerning the Caribbean Court of Justice, give ONE likely reason for such a response.

Response 1:
